TUESDAY AUGUST 2, 1910

A syndicate cartoon from the mainland takes off Hawaii's dream of statehood. The Star would reject it but for its value in illustrating the crude notions of Hawaii which prevail on the mainland. It represents Hawaii as a dark-complexioned lad with weak Caucasian profile, dressed in naval costume—a nondescript hat excepted—standing upon a beach under a palm tree with pleading hands extended over the sea toward Uncle Sam holding a scroll tagged "Statehood" in his left hand. Different symbolism of Hawaii would be chosen by any artist who knew anything of his subject. He would show fine docks and steamships, with a metropolitan hotel and stately commercial edifices, also dignified public buildings long antedating annexation, in the foreground; splendid churches, schoolhouses and beneficent institutions in the middle ground, and massive sugar mills and fruit canneries, amidst illimitable expanses of sugar cane and pineapple plantations, in the background. His composition would in short give some idea of a civilization old as that of any mainland community west of the Rockies, and of industries and commerce richer in proportion to population than those of any country in the world.

A system of paroles for Federal prisoners, including those in state penitentiaries, is being inaugurated. It will not be a new thing in Honolulu, where the national scheme has been anticipated by a Territorial parole system. This appears to be working well. It is one of various instances where Hawaii has been in advance of the nation, as well as of some states, with respect to wholesome laws. Some years ago the Federal land administration acknowledged the merits of certain provisions in the Hawaiian land laws as being advisable to adopt in the national land system. Such instances are tangible proof to the nation of Hawaii's worthiness of the liberal measure of self-government preserved to it in the Organic Act. Moreover, they are cumulative evidence to present in the fulness of time, in favor of admitting Hawaii to statehood.

It is refreshing to find a journal of the caliber of the San Francisco Chronicle—organ of "the interests" though it may be called, yet on that account its utterances being the more significant in this instance—denouncing with strong arguments well arrayed the policy of the Eastern yellow journals in trying to create bad blood between the United States and Japan. It would be well if more of the great papers of this country, as well as of Japan, bent their best endeavors toward neutralizing the noxious bane cultivated by Hobson in America and Takekoshi in Japan and dispensed by the sensation-mongering prints of both countries.

It is welcome news that the Marine Corps is to be reorganized.
The morale of the camp at Honolulu, as evidenced by recent events, would be improved by a general shake-up.

A GOOD RECORD.

In nothing has the municipal government made a better record than in its care of the school property committed to its charge last year by the Legislature. Besides providing new furniture and furnishings for school-houses to the value of some thousands of dollars, in the year since taking charge, the Board of Supervisors has brought both buildings and premises into a better condition than, on the whole, they have ever at one time been in before. Formerly unkempt school lots, all over the city, have been made beautiful parks. Buildings that had been taken over under sentence of condemnation have been repaired and painted so as to be both presentable and serviceable for years to come. Very unsatisfactory, and in some cases even intolerable sanitary conditions have been rectified. Many leaky roofs have been made tight and floors, walls and desks preserved by painting.

In addition to all the work of preservation and renovation, out of a smaller fund than was formerly available, the municipal management is equipping temporary buildings with school furniture in different localities, so that without any money for schoolhouse construction there will yet be new schools opened next term where heretofore none existed.

This care of public school property is but one of many new functions conferred on the municipal government without notice the middle of last year, but all of which have been fulfilled in manner, both businesslike and thorough, which will compare favorably with the best management of the central government on record.

The habitual knockers of county government will not dare to analyze the municipal record of these things. Facts are fatal to slander.

Mr. J. F. Eckardt is to be congratulated upon the entry of his thirty-second year as superintendent of the Queen's Hospital, and that in condition hale and hearty such as promises many more years of usefulness to him. His incumbency long antedated the advent of trained nurses here, so that for years he was the comforter of the patients, as well as the right-hand man of the medical and surgical attendants which he has been till now. There are probably few more experienced hospital managers than Mr. Eckardt living, and the Queen's owes much of its development and efficiency to his intelligence and integrity.

THE HILO WHARF.

Private ownership and control of wharves and landings constitute an old grievance on these islands. Opposition to any new proposal of the kind, particularly such a large one as that now broached in Hilo, is therefore what might be expected. "The burnt child dreads the fire." If the government would approach the subject as a matter of principle instead of expediency, perhaps there would be no Hilo wharf question to discuss today. Is it the right, proper and true policy for the people to own and manage the wharves for their own benefit? If so, the Government should submit the matter to the Legislature at next session, requesting an appropriation from either current or loan fund to do the work.

If, on the other hand, it is sound public policy—not forgetting to look to the future—to have navigation and shipping facilities placed in charge of a corporation or trust, then let the Hilo Railroad Company have its desired license to build a wharf at Hilo granted without any by-play of conferences in which the public at large seems to have no part.

The saving clause in the draft of license contract—providing that

Uncle Walt

The Poet Philosopher

The mother, tired, with aching head, from sweeping floors and baking bread, called to her daughter: "Susan, dear, I wish you'd help a little here." Fair Susan, in the parlor dim, was playing o'er a tender hymn; methinks it was "The Maiden's Prayer"—a melody beyond compare. She cried, while playing on, in style: "I'll help you in a little while." Her lover blew in unawares—a fine young man with princely airs. His heart was free from sordid stains; his head was full of high-class brains; most any girl would give her eyes to gather in so big a prize.
He heard the mother's weary cry; he heard the damsel's flip reply.
His bosom swelled with noble ire! His tawny eyes flashed streaks of fire! He cried: "Miss Susan Sarah Brown, it's up to me to turn you down! While groundhogs live and comets shine, you'll be no blushing bride of mine! The healthy girl who doesn't jump and on her system get a hump, when mother calls, I do not want; so get thee hence!
Aroint! Avoant! I'll hunt me up a damsel fair who passes up 'The Maiden's Prayer' when she has got a chance to chase the troubles from her mother's face!" the government may take over the property at cost whenever deemed advisable, or profitable to the Territory—really means nothing if experience is any guide. This clause is found in most if not all of the public utility franchises ever granted here. To what does it amount?

Nothing at all but words.

VACATION NOW.

What are you going to do to get back the energy you have lost by remaining at your desk all summer? Halelwa offers opportunities unequalled by any hotel on this island. Sea bathing, boating, golf, tennis and horse back riding through a delightful section and over good roads. For the summer season rates have been lowered to meet the purses of the people who are not overflown with money.
Halelwa is a place where nature affords a most delightful view and where the breeze is always cool.
